

FEWS news: issue 4, 2020

Dear Delft-FEWS user,

In this autumn 2020 edition of the Delft-FEWS newsletter, you'll find a summary of the latest news, highlights, and upcoming events, as published on the Delft-FEWS portal.

News

- The Delft-FEWS release 2020.01, which includes around 120 new features is now available! Watch the video or visit the wiki page with the release notes.
- An interesting study about radar rainfall nowcasting was published, which allows for better precipitation forecasts up to several hours an advance.
- The BlueEarth Data platform is now live. Following the motto “dare to share”, various forecasts systems and data services are combined using Delft-FEWS, making data accessible and downloadable for free.
- Registration is now possible for the online Delft-FEWS User Days on November 2nd, 5th, and 9th, 2020. This year's overall theme is “observe to forecast – forecast to prepare”. If you have any questions, or if you would like to present at one of the events, please contact us at fews-userdays@deltares.nl.
- An overview of the different types of Delft-FEWS courses Deltares has to offer, including the online courses at the Delft Software Days 2020, is available on the course page.

Highlights

- In a new blog post Simone de Kleermaeker reflects on the eight online events that took place during the Australian Delft-FEWS User Days. All event presentations can be downloaded at the events page.
- Meet Indra Marth, who talks about her experience working at Deltares and her research into pool-based rule curves in RTC Tools.
- The Delft-FEWS map is back with a completely new layout! A link to the map is available on the Community page. If you would like to add your Delft-FEWS application to the map, or if you have an update for one of the applications, please send an email to Delft-FEWS Product Management.

Did you know that...?

- The Delft-FEWS Basic Course has been updated to the Delft-FEWS release 2019.02 and is now available on the downloads page.

We look forward to connecting with you on the portal!
