

FEWS news: issue 3, 2021

Dear Delft-FEWS user,

In this summer edition of the Delft-FEWS newsletter, you'll find a summary of upcoming events, the latest news, and other highlights, as published on the Delft-FEWS portal.

Events

- The Delft-FEWS User Days 2021 for the Australian / Asian community featured a record number of international speakers sharing their stories online. All presentations can be found on the events page. While the online version was very successful, the community is looking forward to an in-person gathering in July 2022!
- The annual Delft-FEWS User Days for the Dutch speaking community, featuring 'The new way of working with Delft-FEWS,' was organized in two online events. Both national and international speakers presented their work, and the community connected through social talks facilitated in the online Deltares DeltaPlaza. The program and presentations can be found on the events page. Preparation for the International Delft-FEWS Users Days in November have already started.
- The online German User Days will take place on July 1st. Registration is open via the Hydrotec website.
- The 2020.02 \(& 2020.01\) New features webinar, hosted by Ivo Miltenburg, was attended by over 130 people from more than 20 countries. The main topics included (1) timeseries display features, (2) spatial display enhancements, and (3) new dashboard functionality.

Highlights

- To realise the Delft-FEWS vision for 2025, goals are defined in annual roadmaps. On the new Roadmap page you will find information about the Roadmap for 2021.
- Stay updated on the latest wflow developments via the wflow newsletter.

Did you know that...?

- All FEWS newsletters since 2017 are now available on the portal!
- We have updated the landing page for those of you who are new to Delft-FEWS and want to learn more.

We look forward to connecting with you on the portal!
